AI Overview

Ghanaian Palestinians are a recognized community in Ghana, contributing to national development while Ghana maintains strong diplomatic and humanitarian ties with Palestine. Historical and Diplomatic Context Ghana officially recognized Palestine as a sovereign state on 29 November 1988 and has consistently supported Palestinian statehood, including voting in favor of Palestine's admission to the United Nations as a non-member observer state in 2012 . Ghana maintains diplomatic relations with Palestine through an embassy in Accra, and the two countries have a history of collaboration dating back to the opening of the Palestine Liberation Organization office in Ghana in 1986 . Ghana has also expressed support for a two-state solution as the legal framework for peace between Israel and Palestine . Humanitarian Support Ghana has actively provided humanitarian aid to Palestinians, particularly during crises in Gaza. In August 2025, President John Mahama announced the dispatch of forty tons of food and essential supplies to Palestinian families affected by conflict, emphasizing Ghana's commitment to human dignity and the rights of vulnerable populations, including women and children . This aid included Ghana-made cocoa products, symbolizing both practical support and national solidarity .
