

Manufacturers of withdrawable electrical distribution boxes

AI Overview

Key manufacturers of withdrawable electrical distribution boxes include Enecell, GCS, Wieland, and J&HW Group, offering modular, low-voltage, and customizable solutions for industrial and commercial applications. Leading Manufacturers

1. Enecell Enecell specializes in MNS low-voltage withdrawable switchgear cabinets (LMNS), which are fully assembled, modular, and multifunctional. Their products are suitable for industries such as metallurgy, petroleum, chemical, and mining, supporting rated voltages up to 660V and currents below 6300A. Enecell's switchgear complies with standards like IEC60439-1 and GB7251, ensuring reliable performance for power distribution, motor control, and energy management in industrial and infrastructure projects .
2. GCS GCS produces low-voltage withdrawable switchgear, also known as drawer cabinets, designed to meet national and industrial standards. Their cabinets feature IP30/IP40 protection, high-precision busbars, and compatibility with major circuit breaker brands like ABB, Siemens, and Schneider. GCS switchgear is widely used in power generation, petrochemical systems, and automated industrial applications, offering flexible modularity and environmentally friendly coatings .
3. Wieland Wieland offers decentralized electrical distribution boxes suitable for pluggable installations in smart buildings and industrial environments. While not exclusively withdrawable, their distribution boxes provide modularity, ventilation for high-power components, and compliance with IEC 61439 and IEC 61535 standards. Wieland focuses on energy efficiency, flexible communication-enabled systems, and robust designs for harsh environments .
4. J&HW Group J&HW Group manufactures custom power distribution boxes, including withdrawable and modular solutions. They emphasize in-house production of components like sockets, wires, and casings, allo...
