

Node pricing for fiber optic communication deployment

Overview

Typical costs ranged from $10 to $27 per foot for underground deployments, compared to $5 to $14 for aerial deployments. The share of deployment costs attributable to labor costs range from 60 – 80%. This data is based on cost information collected during the National Telecommunications and Information Administration's (NTIA) recent broadband infrastructure grant program¹ as well as research on current market prices. These nodes convert optical signals into electrical signals (and vice versa), enabling high-speed data transmission over long. This guide will help you navigate market prices, supplier selection, negotiation tactics, and total cost of ownership for FTTH drop cables. That makes investing in fibre highly attractive. To determine whether the FTTH cost estimates used in European projects accurately represent the actual costs, the.
